NASHVILLE, Tenn. – M.S. "Susie" Alcorn has joined the Comptroller of the Treasury office as executive assistant to the comptroller.

Alcorn will be responsible for assisting with the general direction and coordination of the office and its staff, including leading the office in legislative duties.

She has an extensive professional network maintaining access to key Tennessee business leaders and government officials at state and federal levels and has proven success in multi-faceted organizational management and leadership. She is recognized for maintaining strong partnerships and demonstrating leadership skills.

"Ms. Alcorn is exceptional," says Comptroller Justin P. Wilson. "She is a great manager and leader. We are fortunate to have her with us."

Alcorn's experience includes a background in both state government and the private sector. Prior to joining the comptroller's staff, she worked independently for a portfolio of clients with a primary concentration in government relations, project management, business development, and organizational consulting.

Her previous client portfolio includes Blue Cross Blue Shield of Tennessee, TN Infrastructure Alliance, Lamar Alexander for US Senate and the TN Better Roads Coalition. Alcorn's state government work history includes serving as deputy commissioner for the department of employment security and as deputy assistant to the governor for legislation during Governor Don Sundquist's administration. She also worked in local government as the public affairs assistant for the City of Knoxville.
